COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Enrollment in the College of Agriculture continues to increase. Curriculums have been broadened to keep pace with the continued change in demands that are made upon graduates who enter the different lines of employment that are open to them. Those students who return to the farm, or who enter lines of activity closely associated with productive agriculture still need a curriculum in which applied studies hold a leading place. However, those who accept positions in research or teaching in institutions of higher learning are more than ever in need of thorough preparation in the fundamental sciences so that they are equipped to pursue graduate study.

Every effort is made to discover the major line of interest of each student, and an advisor is selected for him in keeping with this interest. Not more than six students are assigned to any one advisor.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences is convinced that everyone should have a vocation and an avocation or hobby, together with an interest in and a knowledge of government and of economic conditions if the public interest is to be conserved and an appreciation of science, literature, music, and art in a broad sense.

The College of Arts and Sciences continues to flourish and even to grow in numbers, physical equipment, and intellectual outlook. In spite of the many discouraging signs of the times the faculty and the student body are determined to accomplish their aims and ideals because of the firm belief that this accomplishment makes for richer, fuller life and for better citizenship.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The function of the College of Education is to prepare high school teachers, high school principals and supervisory and administrative school officers. The courses offered in the College of Education are also open to students in other colleges who may wish to take courses in Education for their informational and cultural values. It offers courses to teachers in service desiring further preparation, workers in the Extension Service, and graduate students. In connection with the Summer School, which is administered by the Dean of the College of Education, it offers extensive courses in preparation for positions as elementary school principals, special teachers and supervisors.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering includes the Departments of Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering. A few years ago the curricula were considerably changed, the general purpose being to broaden the courses of instruction, that young men may be better prepared to enter industry or the public service. The College of Engineering has recognized that its chief work and purpose is to train young men who enroll in engineering for their life work.

The College of Engineering maintains close cooperative work with other state organizations. For a number of years there has been carried on in conjunction with the Maryland Bureau of Mines mining extension classes. Ten of these classes have been established, each holding one session a week.

At the request of the Maryland State Firemen's Association there has been organized a short course for volunteer firemen, given early in September each year for the past three years.

COLLEGE OF HOME ECONOMICS

The College of Home Economics was established in 1919, when there were less than ten women students enrolled in all divisions of the University. Nineteen thirty-three finds one hundred and thirty young women majoring in home economics.

For administrative purposes this college is organized into the Departments of Foods and Nutrition; Textiles, Clothing, and Art; Home, and Institutional Management.

In planning the home economics curricula, the following bases were considered: that each young woman needs a general education that she may be more fully equipped for useful and enjoyable living; that training for home making and family life not only brings about the individual's development, but aids in establishing higher ideals for family life; that home economics training provides a woman with an excellent profession.

THE EXPERIMENT STATION

Farmers are suggesting and asking for experiments. They are eager for the results and are seeking the advice of the technical specialists.

Agricultural Education took on new life and really began with the advent of the Experiment Station.

The Maryland Station has research in progress in twenty separate fields involving about one hundred and fifty different projects. Many graduate students are employed as part-time assistants on these projects. They get valuable practical training and are permitted to use some unit of the Experiment Station project for their Master's or Doctor's thesis.

The Experiment Station is an important asset to the University in promoting education and an asset to the state in solving farm problems and contributing new knowledge. Its work helps every citizen and home in the state.

EXTENSION SERVICE

Through its Extension Service, the University of Maryland reaches far beyond the walls of its campus buildings and extends its educational work to the rural people in all parts of the state. The greater portion of this instruction is conducted through practical demonstrations in agriculture and home economics, although increasing emphasis is also given to cultural and general subjects as well as to forestry problems.

This best method employed in presenting this educational work has been found by experience to be by object lessons or demonstrations. However, many other methods are used, such as personal visits, letters, publications, radio talks, charts, and other visual instruction. Through each of these channels the Extension work benefits the farmer, the rural homemaker, and the rural boy and girl.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

The Graduate School offers to qualified students with the bachelor's degree an opportunity to pursue intensive graduate study and research in a restricted field. The higher degrees conferred by the University of Maryland for work in the Graduate School are Master of Arts, Master of Science, and Doctor of Philosophy.

Graduate work equivalent to either the Master's or the Doctor's degree is required of college and university teachers. The Graduate School trains young men and women for careers as college and university teachers. The principals of standard high schools in Maryland are required by law to have had at least one year of graduate work. Much of the summer school work required of high school teachers must be of graduate level, as they already have the bachelor's degree.

THE TERRAPIN MEMORIAL

The Senior Class Gift

The Senior Class Memorial, a perfect five hundred-pound reproduction of a Diamondback Terrapin, is destined to serve a dual purpose. Not only is it erected to perpetuate the emblem symbolic of the institution, but it is designed to serve as an award for the annual Freshman-Sophomore Battle. Each year the name of the victorious class will be inscribed on the bronze plaques around the top of the base.

The Memorial itself, conceived by Ralph I. Williams, president of the Student Government Association, was made possible through the cooperation of Edwin C. Mayo, a former quarterback of the "Terps." Mr. Mayo, who is now president of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, of Providence, Rhode Island, provided the bronze casting at cost. Aristide B. Cianfarani, noted sculptor, and Robert J. Hill, head of the bronze division, gave particular attention to the perfection of detail which characterizes the memorial. Major Howard W. Cutler, architect of the Coliseum, gave his services in designing the base.

The Memorial was unveiled in front of the Coliseum on Class Day.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

FOUR years? More like four weeks. Just a few exams, a little study, a lot of fun, and presto! Graduates! In former years, the grads have been sorry to leave, but ours is the sorriest bunch ever. We must put our playthings away, now, and put our noses to the grindstone (if we can find one).

Our past—that's something that we're all proud of. Freshmen—poor little freshmen—rats and rabbits—bounced around like a handful of bean bags—to the amusement and delight of the sophomores. But our days were not always dark during our infancy, 'cause you remember the Freshman Frolic and Prom we threw. Such fun! Regardless of the superfluous vegetables, fruits, and what not.

Our Sophomore year brought with it a miraculous change. We were collegians! It brought with it a realization of our importance, of our ability, and of our mistake in thinking rat rules silly. We remember our budding campus leaders, athletes, and, of course—our Prom.

Then our Junior year, and with it came the new library, the Coliseum, the co-ed field house, the Horticulture building, the new co-ed dormitory, new paths and shrubbery, and practically a new Engineering building (to the outsider, anyway). It brings memories of our activities, our athletic triumphs, and those awful breath-taking class meetings about the Junior Prom. But could there have been a more stupendous Prom? We ask you.

Our last year is not only a continuation of the activities started before, but we have added new ones. Under the direction of our class officers, our most successful year has been completed, and we can say that it is truly "the end of a perfect day." The Junior-Senior German stands out among the social events we have sponsored.

And so, with a pat on the back, a diploma in hand, and tears in our eyes, we walk slowly and reluctantly out of the halls of learning into a cynical and unresponsive world.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

WE are on the verge, as the more prominent New York scandal-mongers say, of becoming Seniors. Having thus arrived and full well aware that another year will find us sneaking out of the Ritchie Coliseum bearing hunted looks and a roll of ink-spattered sheepskin, we forthwith seize an opportunity to brag.

The Class of 1934, and it please you, has produced just about as representative a group of men-about-campus as you could wish. We gave you three-fourths of a smooth-functioning basketball team which stumbled into misfortune in the Southern Conference preliminaries: Snyder, Chase, Vincent, and Buscher—all of 'em ours. Rufe and Bucky are both three-letter men, with prospects showing for at least another trio joining them next year.

Juniors have been the backdrop for Maryland's varsity athletics for the entire year. So far as that goes, many of them have been stars as well as understudies . . . and have held the stage for encores innumerable times.

A National Rifle Champion is something to be placed in a glass box and admired at a price; Irene Knox, of the now famous Knox sisters, was just that, and barely missed retaining her crown this spring by a single point. Josephine, the other fifty per cent of the sister team, has been a consistent scorer ever since she matriculated.

Dramatics have drawn such stars as Betty Ehle, Sara Louise Short and Bob Kent, all of whom have played major roles admirably. The Footlight Club and Alpha Psi Omega have claimed recognized '34's talents, with Betty Ehle serving as an officer in the latter organization.

The present Junior Class was directly responsible for the establishment of Alpha Lambda Delta, Freshman honor society, and contributed many to its membership . . . demonstrating that scholarship plays no small part in our activity.

This year's Junior Prom was held at the Willard Hotel on February 3, with Jacques Renard and his famous broadcasting band supplying the rhythm and sustaining the reputation of that exceptional dance for good music. Bob Kent served ably as Junior Prom chairman of an efficient committee on arrangements.

Harold Naughton, Norwood Sothoron, Gretchen Van Slyke, and Fred Cutting have served as president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, for the past nine months, with Harry Dyer and Margaret Burdette representing the men and women of the class on the Executive Council.

In September, we don Senior shoes—and we've a pretty good idea that they'll fit. One year from today we challenge you to say that 1933 did anything at all that 1934 could not do!

That's throwing down the gauntlet . . . isn't it?

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

TWO years ago, we came to Maryland as Freshmen, and enjoyed the distinction of being the largest Freshman class ever enrolled. There were nearly seven hundred of us. We spent the first part of the year learning that Freshmen are not nearly as important as we had hitherto believed them to be. Then, when rushing started, our pride was somewhat eased by the deference with which we were treated. So, to prove our merit, we set about making ourselves so vital to the University that we can now point with pride to our achievements.

We offer as a claim to fame a boy who is a national figure in track—Earl Widmyer; another who was defeated only in the finals of the Southern Conference Intercollegiate Boxing Tournament—Harold Burns; another who was an All-State choice at center position in his first year of varsity football competition—Tommy Webb. Besides these, we offer nine men who saw active work in football, two in basketball, several in lacrosse, and many in track. The boxing team, in its best year yet, boasts of six Sophomores.

But, we do not stop at athletics. We are represented on every publication staff and in the various clubs and organizations of the school. Gene Kressin is one of the most promising vocalists and actors that this campus has seen. We also took our place on the social calendar this year with a formal Sophomore Prom that was a decided success.

Our boys are not the only ones who were outstanding. Four of our members represent us on the Women's Rifle Team, which is noted for its excellent shots. Many of the most attractive girls at Maryland are in the Sophomore Class. In witness of this we present the Old Line Beauty Contest with the winner and runner-up, both Sophomores.

Our officers are: President, Tracy Coleman, for the second year; Vice-President, Robert Thomas; Secretary, Jean Ashmun; Treasurer, Kenneth Karow; Women's Representative, Martha Cannon; Men's Representative, Marshall Mathias.

Although we have made a remarkable start, we do not intend to stop. When we come back next year as Juniors, it will be time for us to take business into our own hands, and we shall be ready to assume new responsibilities.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

THERE is one advantage in being a Freshman: there is always a strong possibility that, next semester, you will be a Sophomore.

Having been Freshmen for a year, having tasted the bitter hemlock of first-year nonentity, having at last oriented ourselves in an atmosphere and environment far dissimilar to anything in past experience, we stand on the threshold of a new era in collegiana.

Our initiation into university life has been an eventful one. Two semesters were crowded with a rapid succession of paddles, pledge buttons, parties, pins, and, not so long ago, Pilsen (3.2%).

"Rat rules" came and went with astonishing irregularity. Here today and gone tomorrow.

In the Frosh-Soph struggle, the second-year men took us over the bumps after a battle which raged over the lower campus for almost half an hour. Fully half an hour.

The advent of rush season, although dampened somewhat by the limit placed on dances and parties, nevertheless found us occupying the fraternity spotlight for more than a fortnight. Lunches, smokers, dinners, and theater parties led to pledge pins, with more than two hundred members of the class "going Greek" on Pledge Day.

The roster of class officers elected early in the year saw many changes. The final choices were: Gardner Brooks, president; Jack Tunis, vice-president; Marion Parker, secretary; George Williamson, treasurer; Edith Coleman, women's representative; and Lewis Gibbs, men's representative.

Freshman teams had a moderately fair record in sports, with the gridsters losing two games by one-touchdown margins. A wealth of promising material, however, will come up for consideration by varsity mentors next fall.

The Freshman Frolic, the second in succession to be written by members of the class, was presented April 21 before an enthusiastic audience. The play was a satire on the careers of the alleged "campus moguls," and was well received. The Freshman Prom, the same night, left us with exams to look forward to and a complete emancipation as Sophomores next September.

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

THE Student Government Association is the recognized student organization which governs the student body of the University. It is composed of the Executive Council and the Student Congress, which bodies regulate all student activities.

The Executive Council, or upper house of the association, is composed of the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the Student Government Association, the four class presidents and vice-presidents, and one man and one woman representative from each class. This year the president of the Women's Student Government Association was also given a vote in the Council. The president of Student Government is the presiding officer of the Executive Council.

The Student Congress, or lower house of the Association, comprises representatives from the dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and day students. Each group is entitled to one representative for every thirty students or major fraction thereof comprising that group. The vice-president of Student Government presides over Student Congress meetings.

The Faculty Committee on Student Affairs and the Student Government Association work together for the betterment of student interests and activities.

The Student Government Association has sponsored more constructive and influential legislation during the past year than at any period in its history. Its efforts have resulted in definite alterations and improvements in the University Dining Hall, and conduct of examinations, effective discipline in the dormitories, a completely revised method of electing Student Government officers, and a 100 per cent increase in interest in student government. For undergraduate legislation, 1932-33 has been a banner year, the effect of which will be felt for years to come.

From this Association was selected a representative for the University of Maryland to attend, for the first time, the National Student Federation, held this year at New Orleans.

PUBLICATIONS

WILLIAM HOTTEL, DIRECTOR OF PUBLICATIONS
Student Activities Building

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Many aspiring young writers have Mr. William H. Hottel to thank for their success both at college and in the business world. Mr. Hottel takes an active interest in aiding the advancement of the University of Maryland's three publications—The Reveille, yearbook; The Diamondback, newspaper; and The Old Line, humorous and literary magazine.

Understanding the problems which annually beset the editorial and business staffs, he has been ever ready to lend his valuable assistance and advice when called upon. Maryland stands indebted to him for the part he has played in placing publications here on a thoroughly modern and readable level comparable to the best in collegiate circles.

Starting his career with the Washington Post, he has been serving the Washington Star for many years, and today is one of the most valued members on that publication. He is also Director of Public Relations of the University of Maryland, and, in connection with this office, serves as chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications.

MARYLAND SCHOLASTIC PRESS ASSOCIATION

The purpose of the Maryland Scholastic Press Association is to attempt to assist the editors, business managers, and faculty advisors of high school publications in their own particular fields. This is accomplished by an exchange of ideas for the improvement of the publications, and advice and cooperation from both Pi Delta Epsilon and those prominent in the journalistic profession.

The Maryland Scholastic Press Association was founded in the fall of 1929 for the specific purpose explained above. The officers of the organization for this school year were: Harry Hasslinger, Lawrence Powers, and Fred Cutting, chairman.

The delegates to the fourth annual convention, held this year, were from accredited high schools and private schools in the State of Maryland. The delegation met at the University of Maryland on April 22, 1933.

The delegates were welcomed by President Raymond A. Pearson and H. C. (Curly) Byrd. The principal speakers were Ted Church, chief of press relations of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and Nelson Poynter, business manager of the Washington Daily News.

THE REVEILLE

THE 1933 Reveille is unique in the field of college annuals, in that, for the first time, it is reproduced entirely by the offset process. This process allows it to deviate considerably from the customary quality of tone of paper and make-up used by college annuals. Few books in the country and no college annual in this section have yet used this process exclusively. Again The Reveille is a pioneer in the search for greater college annuals.

This year The Reveille is featuring more campus scenes, the introduction of small sketches, an Alumni section, and a Dedication section. Last year The Reveille deviated from the usual 8x10 size annual and entered into the field of 9x12 college yearbooks.

The Reveille is edited and compiled by the Junior Class, and is presented to the Seniors as a record of their last year at Maryland. The annual is financed by the funds received from the Student Activities Fee and the money derived from student organizations for their representation in the yearbook. No advertisements are permitted in the book, which feature makes it distinct in the field of college publications.

The three major offices—the Editor-in-Chief, Woman's Editor, and Business Manager—are held by Juniors and are attained through recommendation of the Faculty Advisor of Student Publications and the final selection by the annual student elections.

During their Senior year these officers act in an advisory capacity to their successors.

THE DIAMONDBACK

"To make, mold, and mirror student opinion" has been the watchword of the 1932-33 Diamondback.

Timely news, the incorporation of many of the features of make-up and technique of a metropolitan newspaper, and a strong, energetic editorial policy have been the ideals of the editors guiding the destinies of the campus weekly during the past year. They have, in a large measure, been successful in their efforts.

The Diamondback has taken a definite stand in support of the administration on a number of major issues, and an equally positive opposing position on many others. Military training, examination cheating, the budget, and similar current problems have been accorded editorial space of no little importance.

Coverage of the campus has reached the stage where every news source of the University is visited weekly by reporters. A card index system, instituted early in the year, is slowly but steadily increasing the efficiency of the staff and assuring complete coverage.

The campaign for the elimination of fraternity politics in Student Government elections was inaugurated by the 1931-32 editorial board and carried to complete success in the balloting with the cooperation of the Student Government Association on April 26 of this year. An active editorial policy was instituted in February against examination cheating with favorable action on the part of the University Administration and the Student Government Association.

OLD LINE

THE youngest of the University's publications, The Old Line, concludes its third year as the medium for campus literary, humorous and artistic effort. Established in 1930, this quarterly magazine successfully fills the role for which it was established by the Student Government: to supplement the newspaper and yearbook, thereby equalling, in scope, the publication activity of any university in the country.

The Old Line is financed by its share of the regular student blanket tax, and in addition, the revenue received from advertising. It is a Senior publication, and the three major offices, Editor, Women's Editor, and Business Manager, must be held by Seniors. The remaining ranking member of the staff, the Art Editor, may be either a Senior or underclassman, and is appointed by the Editor. The officers qualify for nomination by service on the staff, the elections taking place as part of the regular student spring elections. The magazine is under the direct supervision of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications.

Much the same policy was followed in the make-up of the magazine as the year before, but there was also a special feature in each issue this year, a departure from previous years. Humorous articles and cartoons predominate, interspersed among short stories, features and poetry.

A Glimpse of Engineering Building

MISS EDITH FROTHINGHAM

Miss Edith Frothingham is seldom brought into the spotlight, but she is one of the hardest working ladies on the hill. The care of the athletic publications and student government funds is hers, and she performs her duty laudably. She comes from Laurel with excellent banking experience, and has been with the University of Maryland for about fifteen years.

PROFESSOR GEARY EPPLEY

"Swede," as he has been called, is a graduate of the Maryland Agricultural College. He distinguished himself while an undergraduate in athletics, military, and publications. After his return from the war, he acquired a B. S. degree in Agriculture. He has been presented with the H. C. Byrd Citizenship Medal and is a member of Sigma Phi Sigma social fraternity and Phi Kappa Phi honorary scholarship fraternity.

OPERA CLUB

Ever since the Maryland Opera Club was organized in 1924, it has put forth annual presentations of elaborate scope and outstanding merit.

Nine comic operas have been presented successfully under the very able leadership of Professor B. Louis Goodyear and the persistent cooperation of the members of the club. These presentations have entailed a great deal of work, but the club has always plunged in willingly, and the finished productions have received enthusiastic endorsement from the audiences.

This year was the tenth anniversary of the Opera Club, and it was in response to widespread requests that "The Mikado" was selected for the anniversary presentation.

Officers for 1932-33 were: Louise Reinohl, President; Catherine Bixler, Vice-President; Jane Holst, Secretary-Treasurer; and Minna Strasburger, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

FOOTLIGHT CLUB

With a high standard to maintain, past thespians to appease, more severe critics to be conquered, the Footlight Club again came through. Selecting two of the most difficult modern plays to produce before a college audience, the Club was delighted to find that their presentations were accepted with more enthusiasm than ever before.

A successful year for this dramatic organization really means another brilliantly successful for Dr. Charles B. Hale, director, and in a feeble effort to express the appreciation of all past and present members of the Footlight Club for his tireless efforts, the Club presented him with a large silver plaque with his likeness etched upon it. This plaque, to be known as the Charles B. Hale Award, will hang in the Library. The Senior who is judged by Dr. Hale to have done the most for the advancement of dramatic art in the University will be honored by having his name engraved on the award.

The officers for the year were: Ralph I. Williams, president; Alice Brennan, vice-president; Betty Ehle, secretary; Gene Kressin, treasurer.

STUDENT BAND

The Student Band, under the direction of Mr. Simmons, was organized in 1927. The organization was completed the following year, and Sergeant Otto Siebeneichen, of the U. S. Army Band, a man of rich musical experience both as a performer and conductor, was chosen as permanent conductor.

The band has furnished music for football and lacrosse games at College Park ever since its organization, and has often been sent with athletic teams to act as rooting section as well as band for games away from home.

Last year the band made a new contribution to campus music in the form of a dance orchestra to play at basketball games. This has been functioning very successfully since that time.

This year, in addition to its other activities, the band won second place cup in a Washington parade.

The officers for the past year were: Lloyd Eyler, president; Robert Haas, vice-president; Roland Linger, treasurer.

Lawrence, Foltz, King, Herring, Murray, Tarbett, Heimer, Thomas, Crockett, Wagaman, Hensell.

THE STUDENT ORCHESTRA

Formed in the fall of 1931, the Student Orchestra has been one of the most popular organizations at the University. Donald Murray is the maestro, and, under the guidance of his capable baton, the Maryland Collegians—as they are more properly called—have come to be regarded as quite the thing in collegiate orchestras.

Needless to say the Collegians are in great demand. They have played at every fraternity house on the campus, have been featured at Proms and Spring Formals, at dances held in the gymnasium, in the Cotton Pickers' Minstrel Show, and the Student Government dances held after the basketball games. The high point of the evening meal at the dining room has been their playing, and many a lost appetite has been found under the charm of their melodies.

Not only at the University, but also in Washington, the Maryland Collegians have become famous, and it is not uncommon to see or hear them playing for the gay crowds at fraternity, sorority, or club dances.

WOMEN'S DEBATING TEAM

Although numerically small, the Women's Debating Team this year was very active. Deciding immediately after being organized to use only one topic, it chose the question of the cancellation of the war debts, and worked out both affirmative and negative cases.

The schedule called for four debates. Those at home were the contests with William and Mary, to whom the girls bowed on March 20, and with Mississippi State College for Women, which carried off a hard-earned decision April 10. An innovation was made by having the debates at 6.30, and having additional entertainment before and after the debates.

On their trip, the Maryland girls met Hunter College in New York, and New Jersey College for Women at New Brunswick.

The team was composed of Catherine Crawford, Helen Farrington, and Catherine Bixler, Manager.

Davis, Shaw, Levine

THE DEBATING TEAM

The Debating Team, once a dominating student activity on this campus, has been handicapped in past years by the lack of funds. This condition, however, has not completely eclipsed the activity. Interest in this form of competition has always been found, and with the increase in appropriations, the creation of a definite department to handle the team, it is believed that the interest in this activity will increase doubly.

Too much credit for the success of the team cannot be given Professor Richardson, whose interest and efforts in advancing debating has been responsible in great measure for the success of the team.

The personnel of the team was composed of Richard Schall, Manager; Leonard Levine, Alexander Yedinak, and William A. Love.

MILITARY SCIENCE AND TACTICS

Major Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., attended the University of Arizona for two years and graduated from Sewanee with a B. A. degree.

In 1911 he was sent to Manila as a second lieutenant—his first commission. Under John J. Pershing he participated in skirmishes along the Arizona-Mexico border. In 1916 he gained his first lieutenancy, and one year later was made a captain. Shortly thereafter he was placed in command of the 23rd Machine Gun Battalion, receiving his majority in 1918. In October of that year his commission as lieutenant colonel was approved and he was assigned to the 27th Infantry, A. E. F., in Siberia. Graduating from the Army War College in 1926, he served on the General Staff as War Plans Officer before being assigned to the University as Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

While at College Park he has been active in civic affairs, holding the unofficial title, "Mayor of the City of College Park." Under his direction relations between the administration and the Military Department have been most satisfactory. His charm and personality have won for him the firm friendship of undergraduates and faculty alike.

He is noted for the intense admiration and respect with which he inspires his command. We give you an "officer and a gentleman" . . . Major Alvan C. Gillem!

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

The school year 1932-33, reviewed from the Military Department's O. P., might succinctly be reported as "Objectives all accomplished. Obstacles, in varied form, overcome. Morale uniformly excellent."

Concurrent with the organization of the regiment in September the responsible authorities of the University were confronted with the necessity of making a vital decision as to policy. The clear-cut position taken and enunciated was most heartening to those interested in the work conducted by this and similar departments of other land-grant colleges.

Despite the adversities of weather, which seriously curtailed outdoor exercises, the unit, under the leadership of a splendid group of Cadet Officers ably directed by Lieutenant Colonel Weber, carried on and attained the standard expected of Maryland University.

I desire to express publicly my deep appreciation to the unit for their cooperation, which preserved this traditional excellency, and to the staff of the Military Department under my control, whose loyal efforts facilitated the solution of such problems as were presented to the undersigned.

ENGINEERING SOCIETY

The Engineering Society, one of the older organizations among the students of the University, is now closing one of the most successful years of its existence. Created to provide a medium through which the students enrolled in the major divisions of the Engineering College might meet and discuss modern engineering fields, the Society took another forward step this season by making welcome to its meetings all who were interested, whether enrolled in the College of Engineering or not.

This broadening of scope resulted in large attendance at each of the monthly meetings. The highlight, possibly, of the year was a most interesting evening provided by representatives of the Bell Laboratories, who presented sound films under the group title of "Stepping Off Into Space," illustrating the rapid modern developments in sound apparatus.

The work of the Society was ably directed by Dorrance Kelly, president, who was assisted by John Fisher, vice-president; Denzel Davis, secretary, and Charles Berry, treasurer.

STUDENT GRANGE

The Student Grange of the University of Maryland is a local unit of the National Grange, or the Patron of Husbandry, as it is called. The National Grange, organized in 1874, has long been influential in voicing the farmers' opinion, and has been the instigator and promoter of such movements as the Parcel Post, the Department of Agriculture, and road improvement.

The local unit is composed of Agriculture students and women from all the colleges who are interested in rural life. The Faculty Advisor is Professor Geary Eppley. In meetings, which are held twice a month, problems of interest to students and farmers are discussed along with a lecturer's hour of entertainment and refreshments.

The present officers are: Master, Wesley Parish; Secretary, Elizabeth Leffel; Overseer, M. Downey; Ceres, Josephine Knox; Lecturer, John Clarke; Treasurer, Herman Ramsburg; Lady Assistant, Irene Knox; Steward, William Chilcoat; Flora, Eloise Palmer; Chaplain, John Hull; Pomona, Kathryn Roe; Assistant Steward, Arthur Lohrmann; Lady Assistant Steward, Beatrice Jarrett; Gatekeeper, Daniel Stoner.

EPISCOPAL CLUB

The Episcopal Club during the school year 1932-33 had the following aims: closer fellowship among its members; affiliation with the National Student Council of the Episcopal Church; and the following five-point program: worship, religious education, church extension, campus and community service.

Some of the definite work accomplished by the club this year was: a Student Lenten Fund sent to Mission, South Dakota; sending of delegates to the Tri-Diocesan Student Conference in Baltimore; and contributions to the Washington City Mission.

Among the social activities of the club were: a reception for new members in September; a Halloween party in the Gym, and a Christmas social at the Parish House. The year's activities were concluded at a picnic held at Riggs' Mill.

The officers for 1932-33 were: Richard O. White, president; Marie Brix, vice-president; Josephine Symons, recording secretary; Ann Shaw, corresponding secretary; John Yourtee, treasurer; and Reverend Ronalds Taylor, chaplain.

THE LIVESTOCK CLUB

This club is an organization of the students enrolled in the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland. The purpose of the Club is mainly to give the students in the College of Agriculture a more practical insight into the care, feeding, and breeding of livestock.

It is the aim of this club to cooperate with the faculty in an effort to develop better dairy cattle, hogs and sheep at the University. We try to obtain prominent men to speak at our club meetings, and have been fortunate enough to secure men of national and international repute.

The Club sponsored a Livestock Exposition this year, and plans to continue and increase this show until it will become an occasion of great interest to every breeder of livestock in the State of Maryland and an education to every student in the College of Agriculture at the University.

The officers for this year were: President, Wilbur McCann; Vice-President, John Clark; Secretary, John Hull; Treasurer, Garnet Davis; Publicity Agent, Warren Tydings.

Brennan, Rombach, Norment, Baldwin, Symons, Bietler, Hickey, Betty Quirk, Mrs. Zucker, Anna Quirk, Lefel, Gatch, Neill, Dr. Zucker, Kenny, Mathews.

RIDING CLUB

The Riding Club, organized in the fall of 1931 by Hume Mathews and Lieutenant Shepard, faculty advisor, and approved by the University of Maryland authorities, was a most successful activity last year, as it has been this year. For so young an organization it has progressed rapidly, and this year boasts of a much increased membership.

While it does not always suit the purse, the interest in riding and in the club does not flag. Horses were available this year at Muirkirk, furnished by Whitney Aitcheson, who was instrumental last year in helping the club to get started.

Among the many activities of the club, perhaps the most outstanding are the fox hunts, notably the Junior Prom hunt, held the morning after the dance. It is usually a great success. A hunt may be organized at any time if there are enough people who wish to participate. Whitney Aitcheson, master of the hounds and leader of the hunt, furnishes the hounds as well as the horses.

This year's officers include Josephine Symons, president; Chester Venemann, vice-president; Margaret Jones, secretary and treasurer, with Mary Bietler as her assistant, and Stuart Staton, program chairman.

CHEER LEADERS

Maryland's three cheer leaders have completed a successful year by their important work of leading the student body in its vocal support of the Old Line athletes and in creating a spirit in the Freshman class.

Loring Gingell, the Senior of that peppy trio composed of Cleve Van Horn, Junior, and Jack Horner, of the Sophomore class, were out in front of the stands at all gridiron, basketball, and lacrosse contests, and directed the student onlookers in spirited cheers and songs.

The "Freshman-Sophomore flag rush" was the outcome of their united efforts in doing away with "rat rules" and substituting a more desirable form of installing spirit in the corps of yearlings. Last year they decided against "rat rules" in order to substitute a more liberal and intelligent method of acclimating the newcomers to the atmosphere of the campus. Under the present system the first-year student is treated as human and is given every opportunity to become enthused in the pursuit of Freshman activities through the introduction of inter-class athletic competitions and the voluntary wearing of Freshman insignia.

The work of the cheer leaders has proven beneficial to the students and the school.

MARYLAND'S Varsity football team, in the throes of rebuilding, lost six of its eleven games during the 1932 campaign. In the games it lost, except to Virginia by one point, Maryland simply was up against much better and more experienced material. This was especially true in the games with Vanderbilt, Duke, and Western Maryland.

With only one regular in the line and two in the backfield left from 1931 around whom to build, Curley Byrd never could find a line combination that came near matching the forwards of his major rivals. This was especially true of the ends. Not one of the seven men used on the wings at various times during the campaign was a high-class performer. Willis Benner, a Junior, was the leader of the bunch, but even he did not play regularly.

However, Maryland played really bad football only in the Navy game and in the first half of the finale with Western Maryland. After helping Western Maryland to thirty-nine points in the first thirty minutes, the Old Liners settled down and outplayed the Terrors in the last half by a wide margin, scoring the only seven points during that time and seriously threatening on two other occasions.

Maryland's season came out just about as those in charge figured it might. Victories were scored as presaged, defeats came where expected, and it was believed that the game with Virginia was a toss-up. The Old Liners outplayed the Cavaliers and then lost a tie by failure to add the extra point after touchdown.

During his twenty-one years of football coaching at Maryland, Curley Byrd's teams have lost more games than they have won just four times, and the 1932 campaign was one of them. Maryland previously had been on the wrong side of the ledger only in 1921, 1925, and 1927. In 1927 the Old Liners missed three tie tilts by failure to kick the goal after touchdowns.

"In football, as in almost everything else, it is customary to pay tribute to the conqueror, but in one respect the University of Maryland squad deserves a good deal of praise. It won only five games of eleven played, but there was never a moment in the entire season when courage was dimmed or when morale was low. The players fought through a season in which they typified their character in their final game, in which, after virtually being slaughtered and going all to pieces in the first half, and with the score 39 to 0 against them, they came back in the second half and outplayed the same men who had walked all over them in the first thirty minutes. That Maryland squad was made up of as fine a group of young fellows as one would ever care to meet, and any coach, no matter how many games they might lose, who would not feel proud of them would have something lacking in his make-up. There is something in defeat that brings out real manhood, if it exists, and tests strength as victory never does. And under this condition those Maryland boys measured up."

Unless there are scholastic casualties, and there are sure to be some, Maryland will have twenty-one of the twenty-nine men from the Varsity squad and twenty-eight recruits from a capable Freshman aggregation to depend upon next fall. However, out of this total of forty-nine, the chances are that only a few more than forty will be on hand by the time the next grid campaign rolls around.

Maryland will lose by graduation: Wood, end; Keenan and Cole, tackles; Mitchell, guard; and Poppelman, Woods, Kiernan, and Stieber, backs. Mitchell, Woods, and Poppelman were regulars last fall, Keenan and Cole shared the right tackle job, Kiernan divided the right halfback duties with Widmyer, but Stieber saw very little action.

Benner, Vincent, DeVeau, Hay, and Rittenhouse, ends; Farrell, McCaw, Matheke, and Silber, tackles; MacDonald, Mayhew, and Simpson, guards; Webb and Goldman, centers, and Nelson, Sothoron, Buscher, Widmyer, and Crecca, backs, are the others due to be back next September.

Webb, Nelson, and Benner were regulars, Widmyer was in practically every game at some stage. Several of the others were irregulars and a half-dozen saw action only rarely.

Maryland, for the first time in its history, had serious spring football practice. It brought to light that the Old Liners should have a much better line and reserve forwards than last season, but that the backfield would offer somewhat of a problem.

It is certain that the Old Liners will be far better fixed on the ends, a department that was the weakest spot during the 1932 campaign. So well did the Freshman wingmen show up that Willis Benner, leading end last fall, was shifted to the backfield, and it is likely that he will be seen there next season.

Maryland was well satisfied with the showing made by its Varsity basketball team during the 1932-33 campaign. In fact, the team did better than could reasonably have been expected and deserves a lot of praise.

Coach Burton Shipley, with his 1931-32 quint riddled by graduation, had to rebuild almost entirely. He did such a good job of it that the basketballers, after losing seven of the first ten games, finished with a record of eleven wins and eight losses. All of the last seven games were won.

Leading victories were scored over Duke, runner-up in the Southern Conference, and North Carolina, another topnotch outfit. A notable feature of the schedule was "revenge" victories over Virginia, Washington and Lee, V. M. I., and Hopkins, after these teams had won early in the campaign before Maryland hit its stride.

Rufus Vincent, who scored 220 points, led both the Conference and teams in the Washington area, was picked on the second All-Conference quint. He was rated as All-State center and also was the choice for the all-star Washington area five.

Bob Snyder, with 150 points; Spencer Chase, with 107; Buckey Buscher, with 82; and George Weber, with 38, were the other regulars. George Walker, Warren Evans, Fred Stieber, and Frank Levine completed the squad.

Roy Yowell, a regular up to that time, was put on scholastic probation about the middle of the season.

Shipley will lose only Weber and Stieber by graduation, and it is possible that the former may return for graduate work.

Weber's only previous experience in basketball before going on the Varsity squad this season was in intramural competition. Under the circumstances his showing was remarkable.

Maryland went out in the first round of the Southern Conference basketball tourney, losing to the favored South Carolina quint that continued on to the championship.

Yowell, who had played in eight games before being forced to give all his time to the books, and Levine, who got in nine contests, were the only members of the squad who failed to get in enough battles to win their letters.

Vincent, Snyder, Chase and Buscher got in all nineteen games of the regular schedule, while Weber missed only one. He was working during the holidays, when Wisconsin was met in the Old Liners' first tilt of the campaign. Levine is the only player who failed to basket the ball, and his stay in the nine games in which he participated always was brief.

With a new Coach, Lieut. John W. Harmony, at the helm, Maryland stepped to the front in boxing for the first time since the sport was put on the athletic calendar at College Park three years ago.

Treading unfamiliar ground and starting with only one letter man from the 1932 aggregation, Coach Harmony did what really should be termed a remarkable job. He put the Old Liners so solidly on the fistic map that offers of matches came from many points, and next year's list should be both heavy and attractive.

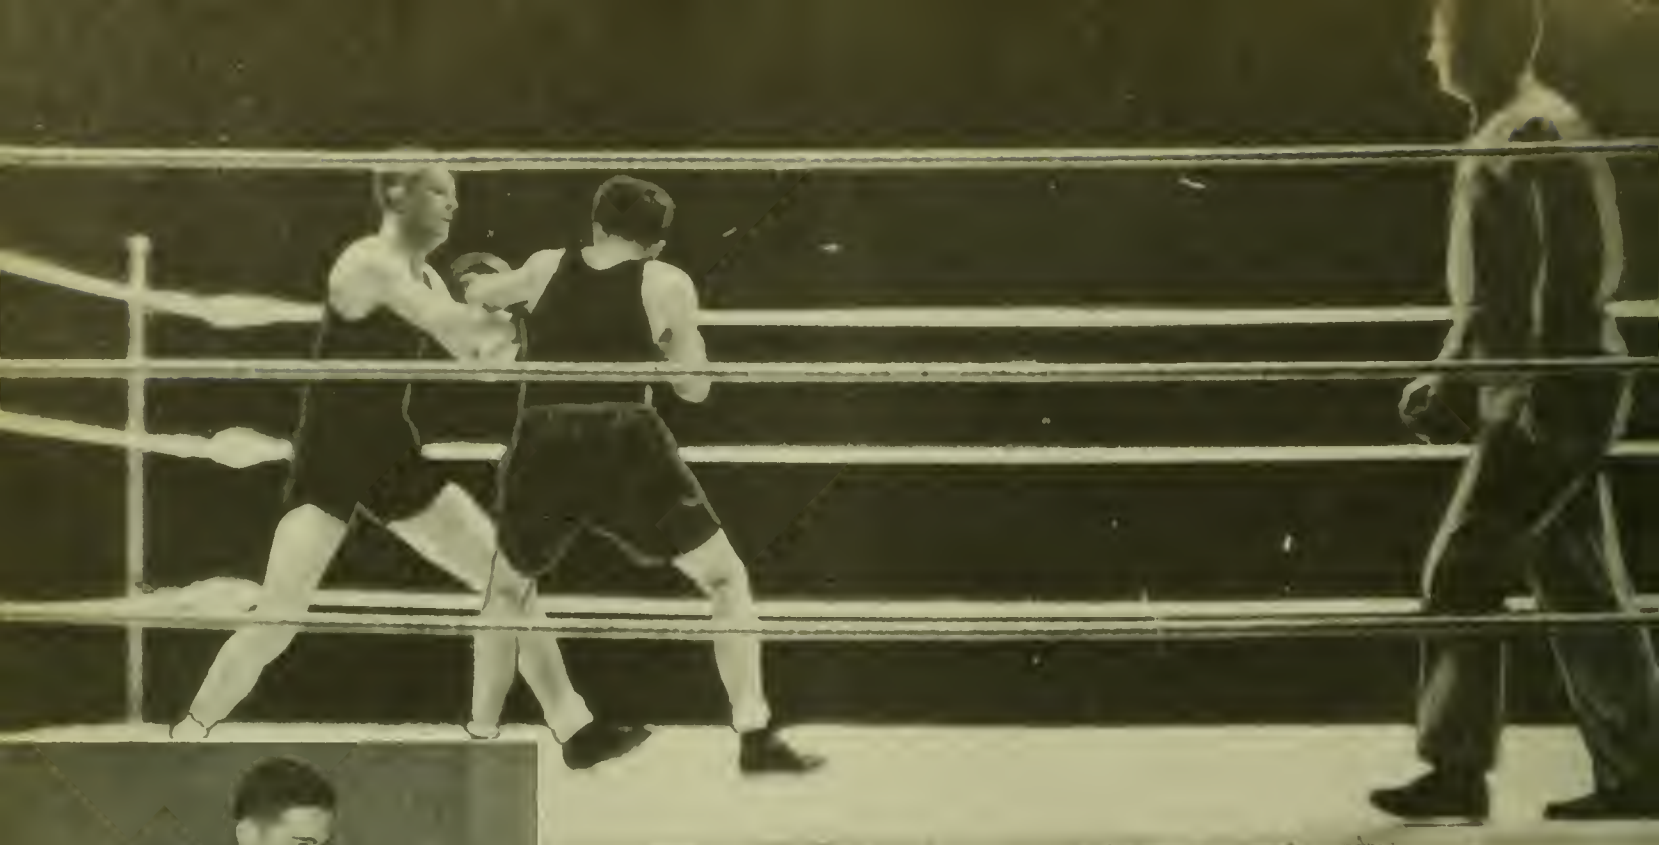

His leading boxers were Harold Burns, lightweight, unbeaten in the regular season; Bernie Keener, welter; Lyman McAboy and Monte Jones, who fought both in the 155- and 165-pound classes; Harry Carroll, featherweight; Stewart McCaw, light heavy, and Al Farrell, heavyweight.

Jim Young, Esdras Gruver and Earl Edwards, who shared the bantam duties, and Cliff Swift, lightweight, also did some fine work.

Keener was the only letter man Harmony had willed to him by his predecessor, and a great majority of his charges were Sophomores, not only seeing their first service with the Varsity, but in most cases doing the first real boxing of their lives. He proved a very fine teacher and he found some rather apt pupils among the aspirants.

Burns, Keener, and Farrell did well in the Southern Conference boxing tourney. Burns went to the final, Farrell lost in the semi-final, and Keener went out in the first round. Each one of their conquerors became the champion in his class.

As Keener will be the only man to be lost, Harmony has a fine start for the next campaign. He also will get some very promising new talent that he "discovered" by holding an intramural tournament in which seventy students participated.

Lieutenant Harmony is on duty at Maryland as a member of the Department of Military Science and Tactics, and if the Old Line institution is lucky he will remain here three more years. Harmony is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1920, and was captain of the boxing team there in his senior year. He fought all four years at the Military Academy, starting out as a freshman.

Since finishing at West Point, Lieutenant Harmony has been coaching boxing almost continuously as part of the physical programs at various army camps.

Maryland again gained a high place in lacrosse during the 1933 campaign, running along smoothly with a clean slate until it was forced to bow to Hopkins in Baltimore on May 20 in a stirring game that ended 6 to 3. With the victory went the national title, as Hopkins and Maryland were left as the only serious contenders.

Hopkins simply had too great an array of lacrosse players for the Old Liners, who "make" most of theirs at College Park, while the Baltimore schools send so many experienced performers to the Blue Jay institution that even the bench is filled with them. However, Maryland fared better than ever before in getting some experienced Freshman material during the 1932-33 term. Where it usually gets one or two of ability, there probably were a half dozen on the 1933 yearling squad who will make the grade next year, and among them were three outstanding stickmen.

However, Maryland, as it is, has been the only team, year in and year out, that has been able to keep close on the heels of Hopkins in lacrosse, and that it has been able to do that with the green material with which it has to build is a tribute to the Old Line squad and Coach Jack Faber and his assistants. In fact, in winning three games in a row from Hopkins, in 1929, 1930, and 1931, Maryland set a record never approached by any other team. It is not on record that any other team ever has won from Hopkins in even two successive campaigns.

Despite the Hopkins setback, which was expected, Maryland has done well enough, under the circumstances, to please its most ardent followers. Navy was beaten for the fourth consecutive year, a feat that has not been accomplished by any other lacrosse team, and Rutgers, one of the leaders in the northern sector, also was conquered as the final attraction of Field Day, May 6.

While Penn State and Washington College, both handily disposed of, were the only other regularly scheduled opponents prior to the Hopkins tilt, Hopkins Varsity Club, made up of former Blue Jay stars, and Mount Washington, doubtless the best club aggregation in the country, were defeated in practice tilts. Maryland's schedule, which usually contains from eight to ten games, was cut short this year by some of its regular rivals curtailing lacrosse and other activities on account of the depression.

Liners Outruns Rutgers Stickman in Race for Ball.

Maryland's ten this year, the new rules cutting the number of players from twelve and at the same time slicing the length of the field from 110 yards to 80, generally started most of its games as follows:

Ramsay Thomas, Ray Poppelman, Harold Burns, and Victor Wingate, on attack, and George Cole, on defense, were the only other players to perform to an extent worth mentioning.

Most of the defense men will be back next season, but the attacking force will be greatly depleted. Among those who will be missing will be Pugh, All-America center in 1932 and 1933; Hockensmith, Wood, Faber, Poppelman, and Wingate from the attack and Mitchell and Cole from the defense.

However, as pointed out previously, Faber will get more talent than usual from the Freshman squad, notably on the attack, and it would not be at all surprising if next year's combination did not excel the 1933 team by a good margin. In fact, it is entirely possible that a team with finesse enough to beat Hopkins may be developed.

With the St. John's game remaining to be played when this was written, Pugh had set the pace in scoring for the Old Liners with 12 goals. Vincent was next in line with 9, and, with a good day against the Johnnies, might catch the fleet center. Other points were scored as follows: Wood, 8; Faber, 7; Rombro, Hockensmith, and Thomas, 5 each; Sothoron, 2, and Poppelman, Burns, and Cole, 1 each. Two of Wood's goals were made against Hopkins.

Pfau, who played a great game at goal all year, and Pugh, who played consistently all season, although not up to his 1932 standard, appear to be the Old Line stickmen most likely to come in for all-America honors.

Maryland's team, as a whole, lacked speed, and this, in addition to a shortage on stick-handling finesse, is what counted most against it in the game with Hopkins. The Blue Jays had both these factors in their regulars and in their reserve strength.

Playing good baseball once it had a chance to get in shape, Coach Burton Shipley's Old Line nine finished on the right side of the ledger by taking five of the last six games after losing three of the opening four.

Shipley's baseball season was something like his basketball campaign in this respect, as the quint had to do the same thing to come out at the long end of the horn. However, it is accomplishments of this kind that bespeak the perseverance of the coach and players and therefore are all the more creditable.

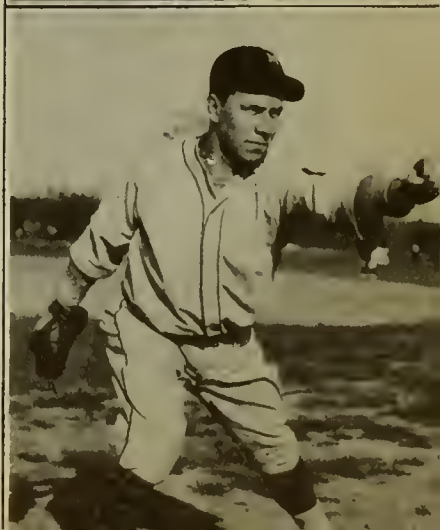

The Old Liners won six of ten games over the season that was marred to a great extent by bad weather that prevented the team from playing six of its scheduled games. One of these was with Duke on Field Day and three of the others also were with Southern Conference foes, Virginia, Virginia Poly and North Carolina.

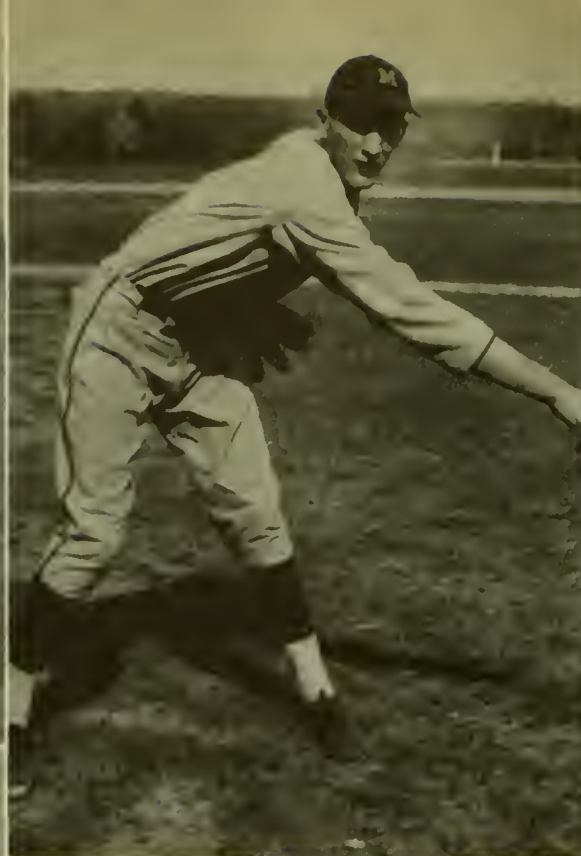

Ray Davidson and Bill McIlwee, left-handed pitchers, did all the winning for the Old Liners, each capturing three contests. Davidson lost a pair and McIlwee was charged with one defeat. Ralph Ruble, a right-hander, was the loser in the other contest that was dropped.

Bob Love, who was the Handy-Andy of the team, also did some pitching. He pitched the last four innings in a 6 to 0 victory over Washington and Lee that was credited to Davidson, yielding a lone hit during his stay on the mound. It was in this game that the Old Liners turned in a triple play, a rare feat in baseball and especially so in a college contest. With the bases filled, one of the Generals lined to Spencer (Skinny) Chase, who stepped on first for the second out and then threw to Don Bartoo at second base for the third erasure.

In speaking of Bartoo, it should be explained that he is not among the letter winners due to the fact that he did not come out until April 25. He soon became the team's regular short-stop, playing in the last five games. However, seven games were necessary to win a letter, and Bartoo will have to wait another year to get his "M."

Maryland's strongest line-up, but it seldom was available, probably was as follows:

Bartoo was the only one of those mentioned who did not get his letter, for the reasons that have been stated, while others, in addition to Pitchers Davidson and McIlwee, and the regulars given above to get insignia were: Ralph Ruble and Al Ferrall, pitchers; Kenneth Karow, infielder; Doug Knox, catcher and outfielder, and Pete Chumbris and Tom Wyatt, outfielders.

Lloyd Jones, regular catcher and a senior, and Bill McAboy, sophomore infield reserve, were suspended from the team with about two-thirds of the season gone for playing with an amateur sandlot nine in Washington.

In addition to Jones, Maxwell, Gorman, McIlwee and Knox have played their last baseball for the Old Liners. Knox never was a regular, but was a hard-working reserve, but the other three leave shoes that will be hard to fill. However, Shipley has enough players left to build a good 1934 team. He will not get more than three or four players who will be helpful from the 1933 yearling combination.

Maryland's most prized victory during the 1933 season doubtless was that scored over Navy at Annapolis on May 20. On that day, as in some of the other tilts, the Old Liners had on their batting clothes and won rather handily. This enabled Maryland to break even with the Middies in Spring sports, as previously the lacrosse ten had won and the track squad and tennis teams had been beaten.

Coach Geary (Swede) Eppley's track team won only two of its six dual meets during the 1933 campaign, but Johns Hopkins was one of the defeated aggregations, and that compensated in a great measure for some of the other shortcomings. Maryland won by 17 points in a dual affair that was held as part of Field Day activities on May 6.

University of Richmond was the other team defeated to even up for a beating suffered the previous season, while V. M. I., by a close margin; Washington and Lee, Navy, and Virginia took the long end of scores in other dual contests. Navy and Virginia had two of the best teams in the section.

Earl Widmyer, Sophomore sprinter, was the leading light of the Maryland aggregation. The "Hagerstown flier" won the 100- and 220-yard dashes in all of the six dual meets in which he took part, captured the Southern Conference indoor sprint crown, was third in the race for century honors in the outdoor title meet at Duke on May 20, and gained second place in the 100 in the Penn Relay Carnival in Philadelphia on April 29.

Cornelius Cronin, who hails from Joppa, Md., and who attended Belair High School, was the second leading point getter. His specialty was the half-mile, and his other scoring event was the pole vault.

Charlie Jenkins, high jumper, javelin thrower, and broad jumper; Warren Evans, dash man, whose forte was the 440; Don Ashton, miler; Ed Quinn, sprinter, who has been elected president of the Student Government Association for next year; Bob Sonen, who runs anything from the 100 up to the 880; Doug Devendorf, two-miler, who had the unique record of running second in every race in Maryland's dual meets this year; Bob Boucher, hurdler, high jumper and broad jumper; Conrad Allison, javelin thrower; Al Pease, shot putter, and Frank Hines, javelin tosser and discus hurler, were the leading point grabbers to follow in the wake of Widmyer and Cronin.

Bob Archer, quarter-miler, who just missed getting enough points to win his letter; Wingfield Thompson, hurdler and broad jumper, and Ellwood Moorhead, quarter- and half-miler, are others who should come to the front in 'good shape next season.

Al Pease, shot putter and discus tosser, who made 14 points this year, and Jim Busick, hurdler, pole vaulter and high jumper, who got 10, will be the only members of the team to be lost. Pease won his letter in a previous year and would have repeated but for making a late start.

Eppley will get quite a bunch of capable talent from the 1933 Freshman squad next year. Among them are Bob Slye and Willard Beers, a couple of capable all-around performers, who in running to a tie in the 120-yard hurdles in a dual meet set a new record of 15 3-5 seconds. Both also high jump and broad jump. Clifford Smith, a sprinter; Selby Frank, a quarter-miler, and Bill

Beall, a miler, and several others should prove a big help to the Varsity next season.

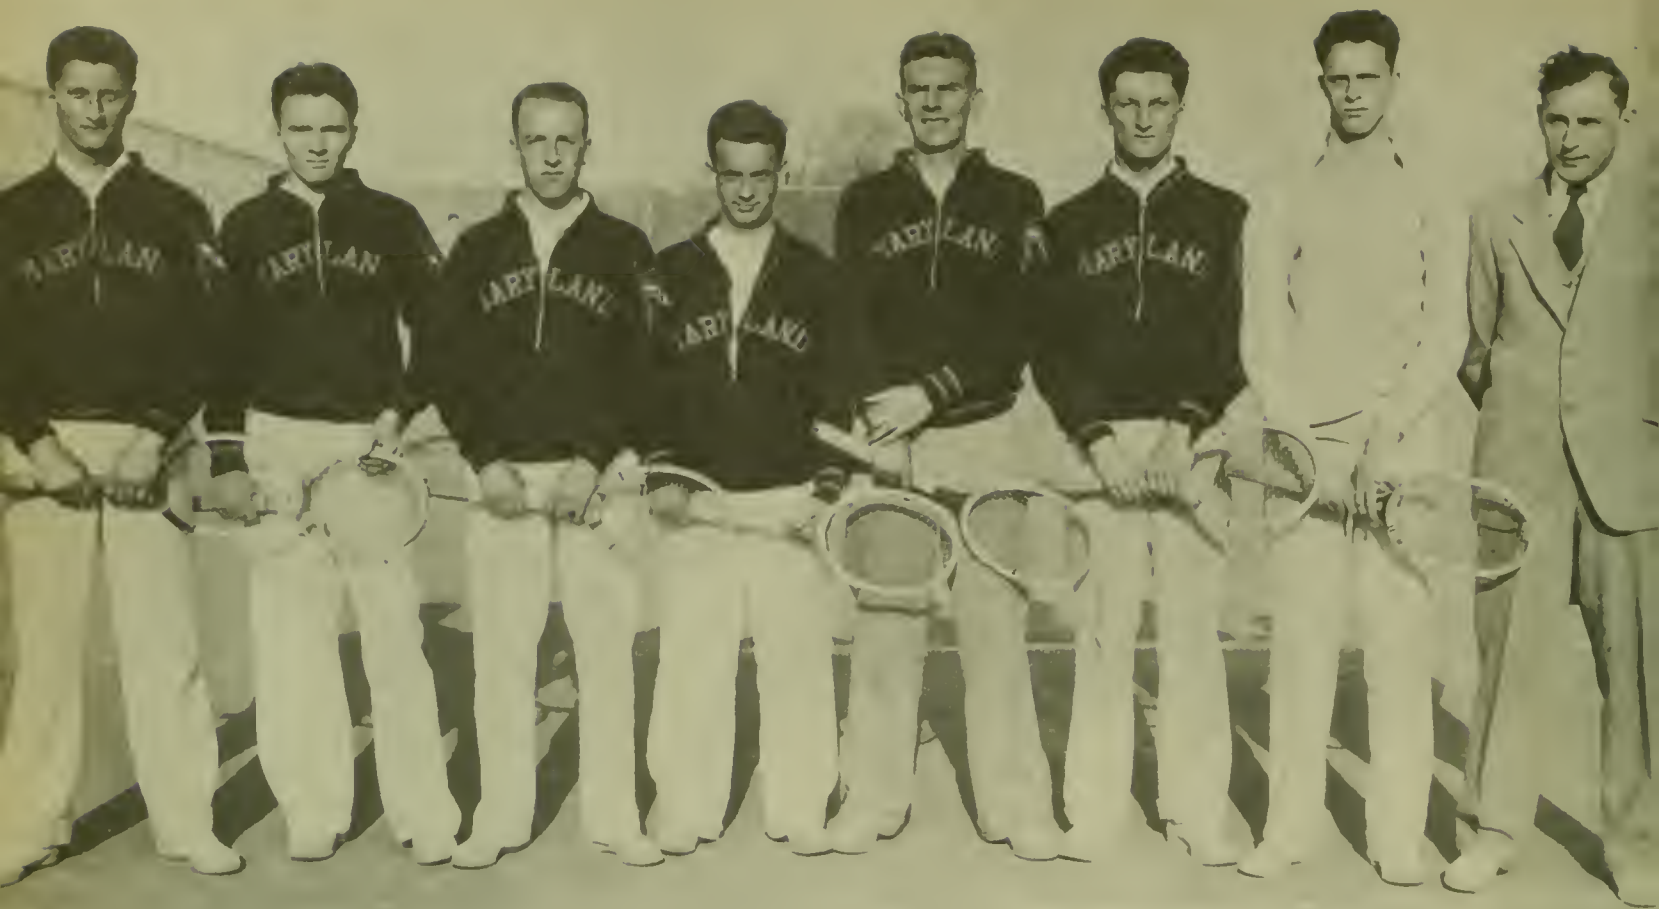

In fact, if Eppley can develop a couple of capable men for the throwing events and a pole vaulter he will have a tough team for any combination in this section to beat in 1934.

Maryland was away for most of its meets in 1933, but the reverse, in the natural course of events, will be the order in 1934. Of course, the annual Field Day will be held as usual next year, the date always being the first Saturday in May. Next year it falls on May 5.

Tennis, in which a real bid was made for the first time in a number of years, showed distinct signs of becoming one of the stable pastimes at Maryland in another year or two.

With John Zirckel, Towner French, Sylvan Fox, Maurice Goubeau, Jim Busick, Thomas Wilson, and Harold Fox doing all the playing, and with Les Bopst, associate state chemist and a former Old Line netman, in charge, the pastime had a fifty-fifty season.

Another factor that had much to do with the advance of the game was the providing of a dozen new high-class courts for the men in Byrd Stadium field, the first real facilities ever to be available at the University.

Navy, Virginia, and the great North Carolina team were the only combinations to score over the Old Liners, whose record in matches won and lost would have been much more impressive had not rain prevented three contests that Maryland could have won handily. Adverse weather also prevented the players from reaching top form early in the season.

Only two of the members of the 1933 team will not be available for next season, Goubeau and Busick being members of the graduating class. However, the five that will be back for 1934 will form a strong nucleus for a team, and two or three good prospects will come up from the Freshman aggregation.

In addition to the seven men who played all the Old Liners' matches this spring, Thaddeus Dulin and Louis DeLand were members of the squad.

Johns Hopkins was one of the teams that Maryland was prevented from playing on account of rain, this match having been scheduled as one of the many attractions for Field Day on May 6. They also were kept from meeting by adverse weather in 1932.

Maryland's schedule for 1934 will contain from ten to twelve matches with teams in the state and nearby points.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Embracing a score or more sports, ranging from the dainty pastime of ping pong to the manly art of nose punching, intramurals at the University of Maryland blazed a trail of successes through the scholastic year that will be difficult to duplicate at any university.

With the object of reaching the average student who does not participate in intercollegiate sports through lack of ability or time, the Physical Education Department, under the supervision of Professor Mackert, planned and managed a program destined to embrace every sport for which there was a demand. The Administration has been highly commended for its interest in offering facilities calculated to maintain and increase the happiness, health, and morale of its student body.

Bozie Berger, under the supervision of Dr. Mackert, directed the sports with the aid of many men of the varsity teams, until February, when Shorty Chalmers took his place.

BOXING (INTRAMURAL)

The intramural boxing tournament sponsored by the Physical Education Department was one of the most successful events of the intramural season. Coach Harmony acted as referee, while Professor Mackert and Major Gillem acted as judges.

Members of the Varsity squad deserve a great deal of credit for their work in training the new boxers. Several men participating in the tournament will greatly strengthen the Varsity next year. Among them are Stalford, Tomchick, Fletcher, Babcock, Flowers, Reid, and Webb.

Naughton, Batton, Goubeau, McGann, Newenmer.

BASKETBALL (INTRAMURAL)

Intramural basketball attracted thirty-eight teams during the past mid-winter season. It was necessary to make three leagues out of the entries, and for this reason the R. O. T. C. League, Fraternity League, and Open League were organized and run separately. The winners were: Cyclones in the Open League, Company F in the R. O. T. C., and Delta Sigma Phi in the Fraternity League. To decide the University championship, a series of three games was run off, Delta Sigma Phi bowing to the Army entry, 25 to 21, while the Cyclones became champions by turning back F Company, 54 to 17.

On March 23, the Cyclones, composed of McCullough, McGann, Naughton, Goubeau, Monk, Newcomer, and Batten, met the intramural champions of Catholic University as twelve hundred people gave their approval to the muralist competition and applauded wildly as the Cyclones downed the visitors, 33 to 25.

VOLLEYBALL (INTRAMURAL)

Nine teams entered the volleyball tournament: Tau Epsilon Phi, Alpha Gamma Rho, Towers Club, Theta Chi, Hyattsville, Baggetts, Phi Alpha, Sigma Nu, and Expository Athletic Club.

Eddie Quinn conducted the play-offs, which developed a real interest among the student body. The "Baggy" Baggetts and Hyattsville met in the finals, with the Baggetts winning out, 15-1, 7-15, 15-1.

Michaelson, Hollingsworth, Kramer, Jarrell, McChesney, Heyser.

SOCCER (INTRAMURAL)

The success of one of the most popular sports, soccer, was due to Guy Downs, who managed the league. As the saying goes, "He knew his oats and spread them to perfection." Six teams, Freshman, Eastern Shore, Smokes, Hyattsville, De Molay, and Sophomores, comprised the league. The winner proved to be the Freshman team after a series of hotly contested games. Eastern Shore was the runner-up with a percentage of .800. Kidwell, Richter, Knox, McTurin, Poole, White, Stevens, 'Horman, Zimmerman, Johnson, and Teal composed the winning team, which turned in a perfect percentage.

WOMEN

Miss Adele H. Stamp, Dean of Women
A Glimpse of the Campus

DEAN OF WOMEN

The year 1933 sees the enrollment of women at the University of Maryland almost up to the five hundred mark. The women now make a definite imprint on life at the University and are a real force in student affairs.

In December of the year 1931-32 the dormitory and field house for women were completed, so this September the women students at the University started the year with a real home of their own and a field house of their own. Eight new tennis courts were waiting to be used on the opening day of school. These courts are adjacent to the Women's Field House and are the beginning of a physical education plant for girls which it is hoped will surpass the others in the State. At the present time a hockey field, baseball diamond, and archery field are in the process of construction.

This year has seen a great advancement in the women's department at the University. The number of girls has been steadily increasing, and their presence has had an increasing influence on standards and ideals on the campus. Their interest and cooperation in affairs of this institution have helped greatly in its advancement. It is hoped that, in the years to come, this same interest, loyalty, and leadership will be maintained.

Miss Elizabeth Phillips, Director of Women's Athletics
The Women's Field House

MISS ELIZABETH PHILLIPS

Since the arrival of Miss Elizabeth Phillips two years ago as Director of Women's Physical Education at Maryland, a steady progress in the department has been obvious to all.

Through the continual efforts of Miss Phillips, Physical Education for women has been made a major department at Maryland. She has originated many new and valuable classes for women, of which dancing has been most predominant. This year she has particularly stressed dancing in regard to Physical Education. She enabled her classes to attend, for the first time, the dance symposium.

Miss Phillips gave her invaluable aid in preparing May Day and deserves credit for its success.

Anyone who has had any contact with Miss Phillips has felt the dynamic effects of her personality, and her outstanding ability in leadership has been shown by the advancement in the Physical Education Department.

THE WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

The Women's Student Government Association, a body which strives to encourage leadership, scholarship, and higher standards of conduct among women, is the governing body for women at the University of Maryland. Every woman student is a member of this organization.

The governing unit of the body is the Women's Student Government Council, which is composed of officers of the Association and the House Presidents of each house and dormitory. Those who break rules are tried and penalized by this council.

This year the Association has brought about many valuable changes in the dormitories, and has revised and improved the existing rules, in order to insure more efficient cooperation with the women of the campus.

Officers for 1932-1933 were: Elizabeth Bonthron, President; Virginia Hoffman, Vice-President; Jane Holst, Secretary-Treasurer; and Martha Cannon, Recorder of Points.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

During the past year the Women's Athletic Association has achieved two important things, namely, the installation of a new point system and a new method for choosing managers of women's sports.

The new point system requires that co-eds must accumulate at least 50 points in one year in order to be eligible to receive an "M." In order to receive a numeral it is necessary to have acquired 35 points.

Managers of sports are chosen after a series of competitive examinations on technical and practical points. The new ruling also states that one person may manage only two sports.

The officers who served the past year are Louise Hersberger, president; Florence Peter, vice-president; Kathleen Hannigan, secretary; Irene Knox, treasurer; Josephine Knox, recorder of points.

WOMEN'S "M" CLUB

The Women's "M" Club was organized at the University of Maryland on May 26, 1926, for the purpose of furthering athletics and good sportsmanship among the girls at this institution. This organization marks one of the highest goals of the women's athletics.

The point system was introduced in the spring of 1929, whereby a certain number of points must be earned in order to win a letter. However, this system has been revised completely, and at present membership in the club can be obtained only by participation in all-around athletics. Therefore its number is limited and only contains those who are vitally interested in girls' athletics and wish the promotion of it on the campus.

The sports on the calendar which are becoming most prominent on the campus include Hockey, Soccer, Basketball, Rifle, Baseball, Bowling, Volleyball, Tennis, and Archery.

The officers for the past year were: President, Agnes Gingell; Vice-President, Dorothy Lane; Secretary-Treasurer, Florence Peter.

Jones, Snyder, Gingell, Webster, Brix, Bonthron.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

With renewed interest and enthusiasm the Maryland women, under the capable guidance of Miss Phillips, began their fall sports program with hockey as the main attraction. This year, as in the three years which have preceded, hockey has been a favorite fall sport and drew a large number of eager girls from each class to participate.

The play-offs in hockey, as in previous years, were inter-class, and much keen rivalry was felt. The Freshman-Sophomore game found the Sophomores ready to take over the Seniors, who were victors of the Junior-Senior competition. The final game of the season was exciting and interesting, with the Senior team emerging victorious with a score of 4 to 2.

The winning Senior team was composed of Elizabeth Bonthron, Agnes Gingell, Marie Brix, Nan Webster, Elinor Jones, Mary Ricketts, Lou Snyder, and Helen Farrington.

Front Row: I. Knox, E. Behrend, M. Burdette, M. Smith, J. Knox.
Back Row: S. Jark, M. Holmes, E. Neal, C. Dennis, D. Griffith, M. Pierce.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

Carrying honors of third place in the Woman's Intercollegiate Rifle Team Contest, sponsored by the National Rifle Association, with a score of 2956 out of a possible 3000, the Maryland team was defeated by the University of Washington, scoring 2976, and the University of Vermont, scoring 2970.

Victorious in 25 out of 27 matches with other colleges, the girls were only defeated by the University of Washington, who totaled 500 over their 499, and by the University of Vermont, whose sixth and deciding score in the tie match was 100, making a total of 600 over Maryland's 599.

Coached by the efficient Sergeant Hendricks, who has produced three championship teams in recent years, the team owes much of its success to him.

Irene Knox, again the star of the team, placed second in the woman's open championship with a score of 398 against the winner's 399.

Members of the 1931-32 team are Irene Knox, Josephine Knox, Burma West, and Betty Owen.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Basketball, although played under a new system of rules this year, again attracted as large a number of enthusiasts as in former years. Each class was well represented and much rivalry was felt in the inter-class games.

The play-offs between classes again saw the Sophomores beat the Freshmen and the Seniors win over the Juniors. The contest between the Seniors and the Sophomores was very one-sided, with the second-year girls winning, 26-7. These girls proved themselves serious contenders for the record now held by the graduating class.

The winning team was composed of: Kathleen Hannigan, center; Mildred Berry, side center; Dorothy Ordwein, guard; Roberta Hannum, guard; Dorothy Bender, forward, and Catherine Bremen, forward. Substitutes: Esther Whitacre and Charlotte Shriver.

Easter, Webster, Brix, Gingell, Bonthron.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Always a popular spring sport, volleyball lived up to its reputation of the past by again drawing a large number of enthusiasts.

The competition between the classes was as keen as in former years, and much interest was shown in the championship play-offs. The Sophomores again won from the Freshmen and the Junior team was overcome by the ever-strong Senior combination. The final game was fought out between the Seniors and Sophs, with the former winning the championship.

The winning Senior team was as follows: Marie Brix, Nan Webster, Elizabeth Easter, Elizabeth Bonthron and Agnes Gingell.

Easter, Webster, Brix, Gingell, Bonthron.

WOMEN'S TENNIQUOITS

Maryland women sports fans were this year initiated into a new activity on our campus, tenniquoits. This game closely resembles volleyball in the number of players, size of court and point system. The chief difference is the use of a small pneumatic tire in place of the regulation volleyball. The game is very fast and requires much skill.

A large number of women turned out for the sport, and the Sophomores and Seniors again triumphed over their respective opponents in the preliminary games, the Freshmen and the Juniors. The championship was easily won by the stronger Senior team by a score of 30-4.

The winning team was composed of Elizabeth Bonthron, Agnes Gingell, Elizabeth Easter, Marie Brix, and Nan Webster.

THE "M" CLUB

The "M" Club is an organization of all former athletes who have won their varsity "M" in intercollegiate athletic competition. The purpose of the club is to promote the highest ideals in amateur sports at the University of Maryland, and the development of a high sense of honor and fair play on the part of all participants.

Each year the club presents a certificate of membership to all Seniors who have at any time won the varsity "M." The following members of the Senior class of 1933 were awarded membership in the club:

ALUMNI DAY, 1932

The Alumni Association of the College Park School of the University was organized in 1892. Each year, since then, the Association has regularly held its annual meeting near commencement.

The Association has been functioning successfully for the advancement of the institution for more than forty years. Because of small graduating classes in the early days the enrollment of the Association increased slowly, but in the rapid advancement during the past ten years the Alumni list has gone well into the thousands.

The Alumni News, the medium for keeping all former students in touch with current happenings at College Park and what fellow-Alumni are doing, is sent monthly to over three thousand former students.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

For the inestimable aid received in completing this, the 1933 Reveille, the editor wishes to express his sincere appreciation. He wishes to thank particularly Mr. H. Douglas Cotton, for his energy, originality, and patience in planning and publishing the book; Mr. William Hottel, for his untiring interest and supervision; Casson studios, for their cooperation in the photography; Mr. James M. Decker, for his excellent art work; and Miss Mary Ingersoll, for her aid in the setting and arranging of pictures. To the staff of the Reveille, the student body, the members of the faculty, and to its administration officials, who cooperated in every way, the editor owes a debt of gratitude which can be but partially repaid by these humble thanks.
